WESTERLY AND VICINITY

Possibility of Public Library Having Indian Picture by Couse—Trolley Tracks Getting Dug Out of Drifts

Art museums are adding to their collections of American paintings by American artists which include pictures of Indian life and telling the story of the aboriginal American. The more prominent trio of painters of this phase of American life is Frederick Remington (who died Sunday), Charles Schreyvogel and E. Irving Couse. One of Couse's best pictures, according to the New York Herald, has been secured for the art room of the Westerly Memorial and Library building, entitled The Master Workman, representing the weaving of a ceremonial blanket. Among the Navajos the women are the weavers, while among the Pueblos of Taos it is a man, by men, who weave symbols of the gods into their blankets and robes.

It is not the fighting Indian that Mr. Couse depicts. He delights in the Indian of New Mexico, the Pueblo Indian, as distinguished from the blanket Indian of Taos, whose Mr. Couse finds his models, thirty miles away from the nearest railroad, he spends his entire summer painting from Indian models and from the landscape which so picturesquely sets off the Indian. One of his recent pictures is the portrait of Elk Foot, of the Pueblo tribe, which goes to the National gallery in Washington. Another Couse picture has been sold to the museum of Dallas, Tex. At present Mr. Couse is engaged upon a picture of Shippaheous, a sturdy relic of the Chippewa tribe, 90 years of age. This painting is to be presented the Detroit Museum of Art.

The art room of the Westerly library already includes the work of some of the best artists, including a portrait of Rembrandt by himself and a duplicate of the one sold in Italy about a year ago for $50,000.

Banger Irving Couse, whose picture, The Master Workman, is to come to Westerly, was born in Saginaw, Mich., Sept. 2, 1856. He was a pupil at the National Academy of Design, New York, and at Boulogne, France, and Ecole des Beaux Arts, Paris. Among his awards are the following: Shaw prize for black and white at Salina gundi club, 1899; second Hallgarten prize, National Academy Design, 1902; honorable mention, Paris exposition, 1900, and at Pan-American exposition. His best known pictures are The Forest Camp, an Indian Camp, The War Pony, and Adoration of the Shepherds, which is in Grace Methodist Episcopal church in Harrisburg, Pa. Mr. Couse in 1904, a bronze medal at the St. Louis exposition and an A. N. A. medal in 1902. He has membership in the New York Water Color club, Artists' Fund society and the Lotus and Salmagundi clubs of New York city, where he has a studio.

At the Westerly public library there was no verification of the coming of the picture, but it was learned that it had been purchased by William D. Hoxie, one of the trustees of the library, and it was presumed for his own private residence.

TESTED AND PROVEN

There is a Heap of Solace in Being Able to Depend Upon a Well-Earned Reputation.

For months Norwich readers have seen the constant expression of praise for Doan's Kidney Pills, and read about the good work they have done in this locality. Not another remedy ever produced such convincing proof of merit.

Catherine Hogan, 22 Hickory Street, Norwich, Conn., says: "For some time I was severely troubled by kidney complaint. I had pains and aches across my back and an insupportable feeling of weakness all through my body. I tried numerous remedies but did not obtain relief. I was finally told about Doan's Kidney Pills and procuring a supply from D. Sevin & Son's drug store I took them according to directions. They helped me from the first and continued use brought about a complete cure. I can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills very highly.

(From statement given April 12th, 1905.)

Doan's Kidney Pills Cure Permanently.

On August 25th, 1908, Mrs. Hogan said: "I take pleasure in confirming the statement I gave in favor of Doan's Kidney Pills over two years ago. Practically speaking, I have had no trouble from my back or kidneys since using this remedy. Many people have called upon me to ascertain if my statement were true, and I have always convinced them of its correctness."

Putnam

cars of a work train and taken down to the long bridge and dumped into the river. Although the yard was piled high with snow, little difficulty was experienced with the block system, which worked satisfactorily throughout the storm, only two levers going out of commission. The trolley cars also managed to keep going, covering the full distance between Webster and Central Village. The time made was very good.

Out in the country around Putnam conditions are still bad. It took the carrier on the star mail route between Pomfret and Putnam two hours and twenty minutes to make the trip late this city Monday morning. A good part of the way he drove through the fields, the roads being impassable. The selectmen of Pomfret were breaking out to the task. Attempts were made to make the trip, but they had to be abandoned. One man who went up Woodstock way Monday tried the route on horseback, but even this expedient did not help matters to any great extent.

Patrons on the rural free delivery routes will appreciate the service when it is again wholly resumed, but up to this morning this has been impossible. Long sections of road over which the carriers are called to go are well-nigh impassable with drifts and neither sleigh nor wagon can be used to break through.

Telephone Service Good.

The telephone service was very good in Putnam Monday, all things considered, but the same trouble as exists all over this part of the state was experienced with long distance calls. The storm did not affect the city lighting or fire alarm telegraph service, a type of trouble that comes with the snow in many cities.

Church congregations were cut to the minimum, only the bravest and most sturdy Christians venturing into the storm.

No R. D. Service Possible.

Not one of the four rural carriers from the Putnam office was able to make his trip Monday. No horse was out to the task. Attempts were made to make the trip, but they had to be abandoned. One of the carriers got as far as Thompson town and another as far as Pomfret. As an indication of the condition of the roads it is of interest to note that an East Putnam man used up four hours and five minutes trying to break through with a pair of horses to get to this city, a distance of a little over three miles.
